

In May 2021, P A Collacott & Co will achieve final completion of the ownership changes which have been evolving over recent months. The company will become majority-owned by its employees through an Employee Ownership Trust along with current management purchasing a direct stake in the business. The founding Directors remain committed to the success of the business and will retain a shareholding in the company.

P A Collacott & Co has grown substantially since being founded in 1978, as a local Electrical Contracting company. The business model has expanded to encompass the ever-changing market of Building Energy Management Controls.

Offices in Cambridge and Abingdon serve a large geographical area across southern England.

The move brings a positive and exciting future for staff and clients alike. The focus as always will be to provide quality engineering and services to Customers of all levels. The excellent staff retention will continue to be a priority and will enable staff to benefit from their dedication and contribution to the company.

A refreshed management team has been established to continue the good work of the previous forty-plus years. The family ethos of the company will be used to attract new members of the team who will benefit from the excellent legacy underpinning future progression.

Please do keep an eye out for further announcements on our social media and website; progress updates and news will be released as we move forward into our new phases of operation.

All of the team hope to be working on your project soon.
